

Bachelor of Art of Sociology

About This Program

The Bachelor of Art of Sociology has three principle objectives: to foster the ability to analyze human relationships from a sociological perspective, to develop the theoretical, methodological, and statistical skills necessary for asking and answering sociological questions, and to enhance individuals' awareness of the relationship between events in their own lives and the structure of the society in which they live. The program is designed to prepare students both to pursue graduate work in sociology and to seek a career in a variety of private and public settings where knowledge of human relationships and/or social research skills is particularly useful. Students seeking certification to teach in the public schools can use sociology as a teaching area.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students be able to use sociological theories and concepts to analyze social institutions and cultural practices across diverse contexts.
2. Upon completion, students be able to critically assess the impact of social structures and power dynamics on individual and groups experiences.
3. Upon completion, students be able to apply quantitative or qualitative research methods to investigate social phenomena and effectively communicate research findings.
