

Economics - Undergraduate Programs

Overview

Why Economics? It helps us understand many questions about our world. Why are there pay gaps between men and women? Why do things cost what they do? What does the national debt mean for the future? Why are some people billionaires while others are homeless? Why are cities growing and rural areas in decline? Why is health care so costly? Economics teaches us to think carefully about such problems and learn how to analyze issues.

Economics focuses on the incentives and constraints that all people face. It is preparation for a wide range of careers. The skills gained in the study of economics are desired in business as analysis is ever more popular.

Salary surveys, such as from PayScale.com, show most business degrees pay about the same at the time of graduation, but Economics graduates with analytical skills have the highest average salary at mid-career.

The BS Economics program is a STEM program designed to allow qualified students to move directly to the MS in Economics Data Analysis program. Some hours in the BS program can count toward the 30-hours needed in the MS program. Surveys show that our graduates do very well in the job market.

Requirements for a Bachelor of Science Degree in Economics

Students must have completed ECON 2305 and ECON 2306 before enrolling in certain upper-level economics courses. Specified prerequisites are designated for certain courses.

The Bachelor of Science (BS) in Economics will enable graduates to meet the needs of employers in the era of "big data" and provide a strong background for those who wish to proceed to graduate school. Students will be exposed to the latest data analysis and visualization programs used in the business world and gain analytic skills that are valuable to both employers and graduate schools.

Minor in Economics for Non-Business Majors

The College of Business:

- Requires half of the course work for a minor in business be completed in residence at UT Arlington. For an 18-hour minor requirement, this would require a minimum of 9 hours of business course work at UT Arlington.
- Requires a grade of C or better in all minor requirement courses.
- Will not use vocational and technical courses (including WECM courses) toward any business minor.
